

The Go-To Firm for Patent-Savvy Companies

CARLSON, CASPERS, VANDENBURGH & LINDQUIST is the area's premier intellectual property firm. The firm's talented lawyers have the procedural knowledge, technical know-how and trial experience to provide exceptional service to their clients. CCVL congratulates its six attorneys listed in Minnesota Rising Stars.

Drawing on his background in physics, Samuel A. Hamer counsels high-tech companies in connection with patent infringement, validity and enforcement. He has substantial experience in developing innovative trial strategies for patent cases.

Brian W. Hayes handles all aspects of intellectual property litigation, including patent and copyright infringement and trade secret misappropriation disputes. He also provides counsel regarding intellectual property transactional issues and patent infringement and validity.

Samuel T. Lockner focuses on patent litigation, with particular emphasis on pharmaceutical ANDA litigation. He also has substantial litigation experience dealing with trade secret, trademark and copyright matters.

Tara C. Norgard concentrates her practice on litigation matters involving patents, trademarks, trade secrets and unfair competition. She serves a wide range of clients including medical device companies, hedge funds and manufacturers of consumer goods.

Backed by a degree in biochemistry, Todd S. Werner works extensively in Hatch-Waxman pharmaceutical litigation. His complex litigation practice also includes patent, trade secret and trademark disputes involving a variety of disciplines.

Joseph W. Winkels focuses on patent and trade secret litigation, handling intellectual property disputes involving a range of complex technologies. He also counsels clients regarding product development and patent infringement and validity.
